

BOISE

IDAHO

VISIT THE USA

Boise, Idaho, shines brightly during the summer, offering visitors a delightful blend of cultural attractions and lively urban experiences. Explore the city's vibrant Basque heritage at the Basque Block downtown, home to authentic eateries like Bar Gernika, famous for its croquetas and lamb grinders. Just steps away, the Freak Alley Gallery dazzles with colorful murals, making for a perfect urban stroll. History buffs will appreciate the Old Idaho Penitentiary, where tours lead through historic cell blocks and fascinating stories of Idaho's past.

Outdoor enthusiasts find Boise irresistible in June and July. The Boise River Greenbelt offers shady pathways perfect for cycling or walking, while floating the Boise River from Barber Park to Ann Morrison Park is a cherished local tradition. Nearby, Quinn's Pond and Esther Simplot Park offer paddleboarding, swimming, and even surfing opportunities at Boise Whitewater Park. For hiking, trails like Camel's Back Park and Table Rock reward visitors with sweeping views over the valley.

Summer evenings in Boise come alive with exceptional dining and nightlife. Enjoy patio dining at Bittercreek Alehouse, which serves local craft beers and innovative comfort food, or experience Fork, known for farm-to-table dishes showcasing Idaho's best ingredients. For cocktails and a vibrant atmosphere, head to Water Bear Bar, a downtown favorite offering inventive drinks and an intimate setting. Whether savoring local cuisine, enjoying outdoor adventures, or exploring Boise's rich culture, summertime in Boise promises unforgettable experiences.

BEYOND THE CITY

IDAHO CITY, IDAHO

Approximately forty miles northeast of Boise lies Idaho City, a charming historical town that preserves Idaho's gold rush heritage. Visitors can stroll down wooden boardwalks, explore well-preserved historic buildings, and learn about local history at the Boise Basin Museum. Nearby hot springs provide a relaxing conclusion to your visit.

BRUNEAU DUNES STATE PARK, IDAHO

Situated about sixty-four miles southeast of Boise, Bruneau Dunes State Park is home to some of North America's tallest single-structured sand dunes. Visitors can hike the dunes, experience sandboarding, or visit the park's observatory, renowned for its excellent stargazing opportunities thanks to its remote location and clear night skies.

SHOSHONE FALLS, IDAHO

Often referred to as the "Niagara of the West," Shoshone Falls, located near Twin Falls, approximately 128 miles southeast of Boise, offers spectacular scenery. The 212-foot waterfall on the Snake River is particularly dramatic in spring when the water flow peaks. The surrounding park features well-maintained viewing platforms and picnic areas, making it an ideal spot for photography and leisurely nature enjoyment.

SILVER CITY, IDAHO

Located approximately two hours southwest of Boise in the rugged Owyhee Mountains, Silver City offers visitors an authentic ghost-town experience. The town retains many original structures dating from the late 1800s, including historic buildings, old mining equipment, and a quaint church.

PAYETTE RIVER, IDAHO

The Payette River, roughly an hour north of Boise, is a popular destination for river rafting enthusiasts. Offering a variety of rafting experiences suitable for both beginners and experienced adventurers, the river's scenic beauty enhances the thrill of navigating its exciting rapids. Local outfitters provide guided tours, ensuring safety and enjoyment.

SUNNYSLOPE WINE TRAIL

For those interested in a relaxing and scenic outing, the Sunnyslope Wine Trail near Caldwell, just forty-five minutes west of Boise, showcases Idaho's thriving wine culture. Visitors can explore numerous local vineyards, savor various wines, and enjoy the stunning views of rolling hills, lush vineyards, and distant mountains. This region provides an enjoyable day of leisurely exploration and local gastronomy.
